$2,500,000 FACTORY COMING TO ANDALUSIA

Scare, Confuse Italians

BELLUNO, Italy (UPI) — Conflicting reports of a new landslide behind the Vajont Dam today created fear and confusion among rescue workers and survivors of last week's flood disaster.

Although Osvaldo Martinelli, deputy mayor of the vacated village of Erto, had warned over an amplifying system that another slide was coming, other authorities at Belluno said there was no danger.

A UPI reporter who flew over the area in a U.S. Army helicopter said he could see a constant movement of rocks down the side of the mountain but that it was impossible to tell from the air whether there was any large-scale landslide under way.

The warning early today was that another slide was moving down Mount Toc at the rate of a foot an hour and that if it hit the water remaining in the upper part of the Vajont Dam reservoir it might cause a backwash wave similar to that which roared into the sleeping valley below the dam last Wednesday. Later, other au-

2 Killed, 65 Hurt As Fog Hits Jersey

KEARNEY, N.J. (UP) — A heavy fog so thick "you could cut it with a knife" triggered three major accidents in New Jersey today, killing two persons and injuring at least 65 others.

Bucks Boy, 2, Has Polio; 1st Since 1959

A two-year-old Cornwells Heights boy is Bucks County's first polio victim since 1959.

He is James Wallen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wallen of 5863 Newportville Road, who was admitted to Philadelphia General Hospital Oct. 6. His condition today is described as satisfactory.

Mrs. Wallen, the boy's mother, said that every member of the family except James had received polio vaccine. She said, "it was just one of those things that we didn't get around to having him inoculated."

Mrs. Wallen said that her doctor notified her that James will be released from the hospital today. She said the doctor told her that if her son were in any danger he wouldn't have ordered his discharge.

According to Dr. William J. Meyer, director of the Bucks County Department of Health, the present case might have been an extension of the outbreak in Philadelphia. The boy's father works in Montgomery County where he mingles with workers from Philadelphia, Dr. Meyer said.

The Wallens moved from Florida about four months ago, too long ago for James to have brought the polio infection with him. Dr. Meyer said no local source from which the child could have contracted the disease has been identified.

"The occurrence of this case," Dr. Meyer said today, (Continued on Page 3, Col. 4)

For Easier Reading

You say there's something about today's Courier-Times that makes the paper more attractive? You're right.

The type you are reading this very moment holds the answer. It is new, easier to read, larger than the body type in previous editions.

The new type face will be standard body type for this paper beginning today. It has less characters per line and uses more white space for better reading.

The name? In printer's jargon - eight-point Royal with bold. A little technical? Don't worry about it. The only name to remember is the Courier-Times your great daily home newspaper.

Two women were killed near Kearney at 6 a.m., EDT when a Greyhound bus en route to New York from Detroit plowed into the rear of a tractor-trailer on the New Jersey Turnpike.

Less than three hours later, a packed Erie-Lackawanna train carrying 400 persons struck another commuter train at Rutherford, injuring at least 40 persons.

A short distance away, at East Rutherford, there was a huge pileup involving another Greyhound bus, two trucks and five cars on Route 3. At least three persons were hurt.

The women killed in the Kearney crash were not identified immediately.

The accident occurred in the northbound lane of the turnpike and it took more than two hours for police to extricate all the injured from the wreckage.

Ten of the injured were admitted to St. James Hospital. All were listed in good condition with cuts and bruises.

Police identified the bus driver as Ted Nicholas, 56, Pittsburgh, Pa. The trucker was listed as Dean Algire, 35, Mt. Vernon, Ohio, an employee of the B&L Motor Freight Co. of Newark, Ohio. Both were admitted to the hospital. The bus had made only one stop, in Pittsburgh, after leaving Detroit.

In the train crash, 20 persons were taken to hospitals for X-rays, but a railroad spokesman said none was injured seriously. (Continued on Page 3, Col. 4)

Week Learns At Capital Meeting

U.S. Doesn't Expect Too Much From Sale Of Wheat To Reds

Last week the top men in the United States' Department of State held a candid, off-the-record briefing on foreign policy for 300 of the nation's editors and broadcasters. Here is the first of several articles based upon that briefing.

Within 10 days last week, the New York Yankees lost four straight games in a World Series and the United States Government by executive order sanctioned the sale of surplus American grain to the Soviet bloc of nations in Europe.

Sports are asking if the Series result could possibly mean the end of Yankee domination in baseball. And a surprising number of sober political analysts are asking an even more significant question: Does the sale of wheat to Russia mean a further easing of Cold War tensions, a definite step toward alliance of Russia with the Western World against the monster of the Orient, Red China?

Ambulance, Car Collide, Two Injured

Two persons were injured last night in the collision of an ambulance and a car while two others escaped injury as a truck went out of control Saturday morning.

Both mishaps occurred in Bristol Township. A third accident on Route 13 Saturday afternoon resulted in injuries to a five-year-old girl.

A brand new Bucks County Rescue Squad ambulance, on an emergency run to Langhorne, was involved in a collision with a car at 6:21 o'clock last night on Route 413 at Bath Road.

While Making Turn
Joseph W. Fox, 28, of 3638 Newportville Road, Newportville, ambulance driver, told police the auto pulled out in front of the ambulance in making a turn on to Bath Road.

Arthur Krauss, 29, of Green St. and Watson Ave., Langhorne, driver of the auto, will be charged with failure to yield the right of way upon his release from Lower Bucks County Hospital where he is in satisfactory condition, suffering from multiple facial lacerations and possible concussion.

Over 100 stitches were required to close his head injuries.

Nurse Injured
Mrs. Mary Hemp, 29, of 4500 Brookside Ave., Laurel Bend, a nurse riding in the ambulance, was treated at the hospital for injuries of the left knee and abrasions of the forehead.

The injured were taken to the hospital by the Pennel-Middle-town Rescue Squad.

Damage to the new Cadillac ambulance was estimated at $700 while Krauss' car was damaged to the extent of $800.

Large Steel Distributor To Hire 350

Edgcomb Steel Co. will develop a $2.5 million plant on the 21-acre Sidebotham tract in Andalusia, Bensalem.

Poquessing Corp., realtors, represented both parties in the sale of the land for $167,900.

Plans include a 250,000 square foot, one-story building for warehousing, metal processing and executive offices with an estimated initial work force of 350.

Following extensive engineering studies, construction is slated for 1965.

"Key Need"

H. Lloyd Beyer Jr., president of Edgcomb, hailed the acquisition as "a key need in our future plans."

"Superb highway and rail facilities combine to make Andalusia an ideal home base for our four plants and three sales offices," he said. The firm, said to be the largest independent steel distributor in the East, is now observing its 40th anniversary.

The site has frontage on both the Delaware River and State Road, less than a mile north of Philadelphia City limits, and is handy to Woodhaven Interchange of the Delaware Expressway.

"New Muscle"

Poquessing Vice President George A. Beech Jr., who handled the negotiations, saw the move as "new muscle for the growing Bucks County industrial community" and praised the teamwork of Edgcomb officers, Bensalem Township officials, the Sidebotham interests and local civic groups in working out the many complex problems involved.

"We are especially pleased," said Beech, "that the plans include screen planting to harmonize with surrounding residential and industrial occupancies. Thus a valuable asset will be added to the community without disturbing the quiet, homey atmosphere for which it is known."

Hosiery Mill Starts Work In Dublin

The Wisteria Mills, Inc., Penn., a closely associated company of Wisteria Hosiery Mills, Inc., has begun production in the former Green Lawn Hosiery Mill, Dublin, A. C. Willemsen, president of the Bucks County Industrial Development Corp., said today.

The company is installing close to a million dollars worth of Singer-Fidelity, four-feed, tubular, seamless hosiery machines and plans to ship out branded goods all over the world, according to Richard Spurgeon, in charge of research and development for Wisteria.

100-Employee Goal

Wisteria has set a goal of 100 employees, mostly female and has scheduled three shifts and a seven-day week operation in the Central Bucks plant.

The industrial development corp. has been assisting since April to locate the firm in Bucks County. The prospect was referred to the corporation by Franklin Wood of the Bucks County Planning Commission. The Central Bucks Chamber of Commerce, through its president, William O. Kline, provided assistance on the project.

According to the preside Edward Fray, employees will be hired as the 100 machines are installed. At present there are 19 employees doing shift work. The new operation began the first of September. Wisteria has other mills in North and South Carolina.

Willemsen said this is the 69th industrial project since the corporation was created over 5½ years ago.

CD Complaint Filed On 'Dual Job'

A formal complaint has been lodged with the state Civil Defense Council charging Mark Edwards, Middletown's civil defense director, with serving as "acting township manager in violation of civil defense regulations."

The complaint was filed with Robert F. Hartman, administrative services chief of the council, by John Lindsay, Democratic candidate for Middletown supervisor.

Lindsay said Edwards has been serving in the dual capacity since Sept. 3, 1963.

"On August 28, 1963," Lindsay said in his complaint, "the Middletown Township Board of Supervisors directed Mr. Edwards to take charge of all office activities until a new manager is hired."

"We ask your office to investigate this alleged violation. We don't see how Mr. Edwards could handle both the civil defense job on a full time basis and the manager's job on a full time basis."

Edwards has denied that he is serving as acting township manager. He said he has been handling some of the manager's paperwork but at night and not on federal time.

Meanwhile, Falls Township Supervisor Milton Berkes, last night charged that Middletown Supervisor Joseph Canby "is part of a plot to try to cover-up the illegal actions of their Civil Defense Director who has been acting as Township Manager in violation of the law."

Berkes, who is a Democratic candidate for Bucks County Commissioner, speaking at a rally in Falls Township last night, said:

"Canby, of all people, should have been aware of the implications of Edwards' activity. While he was attacking me and my position in Falls as Township superintendent, he certainly should have been concerned with his illegal dual position in his own township," Berkes said.

Head Count Mighty Handy

A New York couple, continuing their trip home on the New Jersey Turnpike after stopping for gas at a Bensalem service station, discovered last night one of their four children missing.

The couple, Mr. and Mrs. William Burke, turned their car around after reaching Exit 7 in New Jersey and headed back to the service station on Route 1 near Street Road.

The youngster who was waiting tearfully, had left the car for a soda and the couple never counted heads until they were on their way.

'Copter Crash Kills Six

NEW YORK (UPI) — A New York Airways helicopter crashed and burned on takeoff at Idlewild Airport today, killing six persons, police reported.

Police said four passengers and two crewmen on the 25-seat twin-blade craft were killed.

The Federal Aviation Agency control tower at the airport said the helicopter, a Boeing Vertol 107, crashed at 12:33 p.m., EDT while taking off. The helicopter was barely off the ground when it plunged to earth, eyewitnesses said.

Firemen quickly extinguished the blaze, and the bodies were removed to an open area. The area was strewn with wreckage.

A large number of airlines' employees quickly raced to the scene, a section of the sprawling airport between the cargo area and several domestic passenger terminals.

Steel Appeal Winding Up

U.S. Steel's Fairless Works is expected to wind up its tax appeal case in Bucks County Court, Doylestown, this afternoon.

Judge Edwin H. Satterthwaite, who is hearing the 11-day appeal, is expected to make a decision later this year.

The firm is appealing its assessment during the past four years. Its present valuation is $29,867,300.

The company contends that the valuation placed on it by the county board of assessments, is based on improper methods and that the board included items of machinery and equipment worth millions of dollars, which are not subject to taxation.

Navy Secy. Quits Post

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Navy Secretary Fred Korth resigned today after a series of differences with Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, climaxed by McNamara's rejection of Navy proposals to build a new nuclear-powered aircraft carrier.

In announcing Korth's resignation effective Nov. 1, the White House said the top Navy civilian post would be taken over by Paul H. Nitze, a long time State Department and Defense Department expert on international affairs.

Nitze is now assistant defense secretary for international security affairs and will yield that post to his deputy, William P. Bundy. The latter is a brother of President Kennedy's assistant for national security affairs, McGeorge Bundy.

Korth's letter of resignation was dated last Friday, two days after McNamara notified the Navy that he had turned down a proposal to build a second nuclear-powered carrier for the U. S. fleets. McNamara ruled, instead, in favor of a new conventionally powered flatfoot.

On Friday, Korth prevailed on the defense chief to take one more look at the Navy's case for an atomic carrier. The Defense Department thereupon took the position that no final decision on the proposed ship had yet been taken.

The carrier controversy provided dramatic timing for a decision that Korth, a former Fort Worth, Tex., banker had been contemplating for some weeks. In his letter of resignation, Korth cited "pressing private affairs" as the reason for quitting.

But he had considered McNamara's proposals for a military pay increase to be inadequate, and had objected to the elimination of overseas pay for thousands of enlisted men.

He also favored a stronger program than the Pentagon would support for replacing of obsolescent warships.

Almond: GOP Would Halt Fire Co. Aid

Walter Almond, Democratic candidate for supervisor in Falls Township, charged last night that the Republican supervisor candidates, if elected, plan to end the township's financial help to the three volunteer fire companies.

Speaking at a Democratic rally in the Fairless Hills Fire Co., Almond said this plan came to light a few days ago at the "Candidates Night" of the Pennsbury Heights Civic Association.

According to Almond, the Republican supervisor candidates publicly listed the $36,000 which Falls spends in support of the volunteer fire companies as one of the items which the Republicans will "remove from the budget if elected."

"This shows a complete lack of foresight, poor planning, and a total lack of appreciation of the fine services these fire companies provide," Almond said.

"Our volunteer fire companies give us excellent fire protection at an extremely low cost. The money allocated by our township is very small compared to the services rendered and the security enjoyed. The Republican approach to this matter could conceivably force our township into the establishment of a costly municipal fire department with a resultant jump in the cost of fire protection and taxes," Almond said.

Philharmonic

W. A. Mozart, "The Jupiter." Called a "tour d'force" by musicians, it's a symphony based on five musical themes with intricate melodies that tests the most skilled orchestra.

At the end of this symphony when all five musical themes were simultaneously combined into one mighty and almost magical wave of music, the audience for a moment after the music had stopped sat almost transfixed — then they applauded for four minutes.

As is usual with a DelVal Orchestra concert, the musical menu was varied. Yesterday the popular classic of Aram Khachaturian — "The Masquerade Suite," was vividly presented along with old and modern classics.

The new classic of Russian composer Dmitri Kabalevsky sounded as if Kabalevsky had listened to George Gershwin and then toned-down or censored all Gershwin's brassy passages.

Kabalevsky, however, a member of the Red Presidium, said that he was influenced by White Russian folk tunes and a conservative ideological appeal to the masses.

The Philharmonic skillfully played Kabalevsky's classic "Concerto For Piano And Orchestra In G Minor" with the precise tonal quality Kabalevsky called for — an accomplishment when you consider that Kabalevsky calls for a complicated harmonic "modern" sound that must always be tonal and not atonal (most modern music is atonal).

Carole-Anne Craig Mochernuk, who will give a solo recital at Carnegie Hall, New York City in November, was the featured pianist.

With great dexterity Mrs. Mochernuk went from fiery to calm passages with ease, demonstrating her considerable technical skill and sensitivity.

On Sunday, Nov. 10, at 3 p.m. the orchestra will present Brahms' "Symphony No. 1," and Beethoven's "Piano Concerto No. 5." Marion Zarzeczna, pianist, winner of numerous musical prizes and whose recital last season in New York City was acclaimed by that city's critics as "exquisite," will be the featured performer.

Another 20 persons were treated by a railroad physician.

The spokesman said the three-car commuter diesel, which normally carries 180 persons, struck the train ahead of it. The engineer did not see the train until it was too late. The train was creeping at five miles an hour at the time.

The crash occurred in a fog so dense "you could cut it with a knife," the spokesman said. The poor visibility was responsible for the extra passengers because a number of commuter buses to Manhattan cancelled their run because of it.

The first train, en route from Suffern, N. Y., to Hoboken, N. J., carried 650 persons in its nine coaches. None of them reported any injury.

The second train was going to Hoboken from Carlton Hill, N.J. The fog caused delays for 18 other Erie-Lackawanna trains, ranging from 15 minutes to nearly two hours.

In the East Rutherford accident, one of the trucks was carrying long pipes. When the rig jackknifed across the road, the pipes rolled onto the highway, hampering rescuers. It was three hours before the wreckage was removed.

Canby Calls For Delay On Manor Addition

Joseph O. Canby, Republican candidate for county commissioner, today urged the present commissioners to hold off the opening of bids and awarding of contracts for the 240-bed addition to Neshaminy Manor that is scheduled tomorrow.

Canby said the Bucks County Planning Commission, of which he is a member, was never asked to review the plans as required by law. Also, he said, awarding of contracts tomorrow for the construction of the addition for county nursing home for the elderly, might mean the county would not get any federal aid.

Law Suit
The county commission have already been hit by a law suit seeking to prevent construction of the addition.

John Justus Bodley, one of the three county commissioners who is seeking reelection as Canby's running mate, also has attacked the planned addition. Bodley, who favored an earlier proposal of a 100-bed addition, charged his fellow commissioners were "too hasty" in approving the plans. He said they didn't even bother to unroll the construction plans before approving them. Canby said the law stipulates member of the committee said.

During the period denoting Conscience Day, from 6 a.m. tomorrow to 6 a.m. Wednesday, exactly one month from the date of the bombing of the church in Birmingham, Alabama, when four innocent children were murdered and others maimed for life, the churches and synagogues in Lower Bucks County will be open for a 24-hour prayer vigil.

At 10:22 a.m., tomorrow, the exact hour of the bombing on Sept. 15, church bells will ring and fire sirens will signal the start of a three-minute period of silence and meditation to be observed by commercial establishments and schools throughout the area.

Rev. John Eldred, chairman of the committee, said that the entire 24-hour period and the three-minute period of silence is a time of self examination and resolution to work for the elimination of this social and moral evil of bigotry, hatred, and discrimination.

Will Observe Day

Following the resolution proclaimed by the Bucks County Commissioners, these groups proved by endorsing and agreeing to observe Conscience Day: Mill Street, Bristol, Businessmen Association, Levittown Businessmen Association, Fairless Hill Businessmen Association, Lower Bucks County Chamber of Commerce, Bucks County Conference on Community Relations and the Exchange Club of Levittown. There have been endorsements of approval or resolutions from Bristol Borough, Tullytown Borough and Falls Township. In addition there have been assurances of cooperation from leaders in education, commerce, labor, industry and the professions.

Bristol Borough Mayor James M. Neallis and Harry W. Fawkes, president of the Bristol Township board of commissioners, today signed proclamations designating tomorrow as Community Conscience Day in their communities.

The Citizens Conscience Committee was spearheaded by Rev. Eldred of the First Baptist Church of Levittown-Fairless Hills.

Pastor Eldred said that Conscience Day is only the beginning of a continuing program in Lower Bucks County by church, synagogue, educational and lay leaders to eliminate human injustices in all walks of American life.

The steering committee consists of Rev. Theodore Getz of the Christ Lutheran Church of Levittown; Rabbi William Fierwerker of Temple Beth El; Richard Hepburn of the Catholic Lay Council; Jack Ward, Bristol Township commissioner; Norman J. Local Demos Told Of Victory In N.H.

By SCOOP LEWIS
Courier-Times Staff Writer

Bucks County Democrats were told that despite their smaller numbers in registration, they can win at the polls next month.

The confident bit of advice came from U.S. Sen. Tom McIntyre, the first Democratic senator from New Hampshire in 30 years.

Speaking before 1,000 county Democrats at the annual Jefferson Day dinner Saturday night, McIntyre likened New Hampshire to Bucks County — both areas "suffering under Republican domination." He was roundly applauded when he said, "let me tell you—this disease is not fatal."

The strapping 48-year-old senator told the $25-a-plate diners in the gymnasium of Franklin D. Roosevelt Junior High School, Bristol Township, of how the Democrats took advantage of Republican disunity to win in New Hampshire last year.

Leadership Vacuum

McIntyre attributed the beginning of the GOP downfall to the death of Republican Styles Bridges, who had been re-elected to his fifth term in the U.S. Senate in 1961. "His death created a vacuum for party leadership," McIntyre declared. "And we were ready."

A retired Army infantry major who was mayor of Laconia, N.H., from 1949-51, Senator McIntyre told how New Hampshire Democrats put together a good ticket, raised funds and coordinated all campaign efforts until "we fused into a oneness that

Robert F. Randolph, 27, of Lambertville, N.J., told township police he put on his brakes to stop the truck before it careened over the medial strip and hit a traffic standard on the opposite side of the road.

Albert VanCleave of 11 Green Lane, Bristol, who was riding his bicycle on the eastbound side of Route 13, told police the "truck jumped over me." The youth escaped injury as did the truck driver.

Damage to the tractor-trailer, owned by Donald M. Klockner of Trenton was estimated at $3,000.

surprised even those of us who were in the midst of it."

"We issued statements by the team — meaningful statements that faced up to the great issues of the day," McIntyre said in describing the success in '62. The senator said the "single most important thing we did — and did it as no New Hampshire Democrats had before — was to lay before the voters of New Hampshire the sad records of the Republican incumbents."

2-Party System

McIntyre told Saturday night's audience not be ashamed of being politicians. "This nation owes a great debt to those of you who make our two-party system work."

He said most patronage jobs in New Hampshire are still held by Republicans "but we are working to effect changes." John T. Welsh, Bucks County Democratic chairman, in noting Saturday night's turnout was much smaller than a year ago, said "we've lost about 350 patronage jobs."

Republican presidential hopefuls George Romney, Nelson Rockefeller and Barry Goldwater were characterized by McIntyre as the leading figures in the Alliance Against Progress."

He said the way Goldwater won on issues, "I understand he's thinking of changing his name to Quicksilver."

Give Talks

Other speakers at Saturday night's dinner included State Senator Paul W. Mahady of LaTrobe and Judge J. Sydney Hoffman of Philadelphia. Democratic candidates for State Superior Court, and Milton Berkes, county commissioner candidate who spoke for all the county Democratic hopefuls.

Berkes continued his tirade against District Attorney Paul R. Beckert and assailed any plans of Governor Scranton to appoint Beckert to a judgeship. He told the Republican leaders "do not saddle our courts with your problems. If you want to kick Paul Beckert upstairs, do it elsewhere — and not in Bucks County."

Other guests at the Jefferson Day dinner included Democratic county candidates Walter S. Farley Jr., for commissioner; Jacob Tirjan Jr., treasurer; Dr. James L. Maglietta, coroner; Harriet Mims, clerk of Quarter Sessions Court; Ezra Golub, surveyor, and Walter Petri, register of wills.

Also, Rosemarie Garowski of Doylestown Township, Miss Bucks County Democrat; Phil Waters, state committeeman; Mrs. Eva Horne Derr, state committeewoman; Mrs. Mary McGee, first vice chairman of the county Democratic party; Mrs. Myrtle Gallen, third vice chairman, and Jack Sirott, party treasurer.

The Rev. Elton Richards, pastor of the Resurrection Lutheran Church of Levittown, delivered the invocation.

Bishop's Body

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — About 50,000 persons passed through the Church of St. Peter the Apostle here Sunday to view the body of newly beatified Bishop John Nepomucene Neumann, fourth Bishop of Philadelphia.

The body was placed on permanent display in a crypt of the church. Two solemn masses and several special services and processions were held during the day. Extra police were assigned to handle the crowds at the north Philadelphia church.

U. N. Ready To Debate On Red China

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — The General Assembly prepared today for its annual debate on a U.N. seat for Red China.

The Chinese representation issue was listed to come up today, but the assembly's crowded agenda made it more likely that the debate would be delayed until Wednesday.

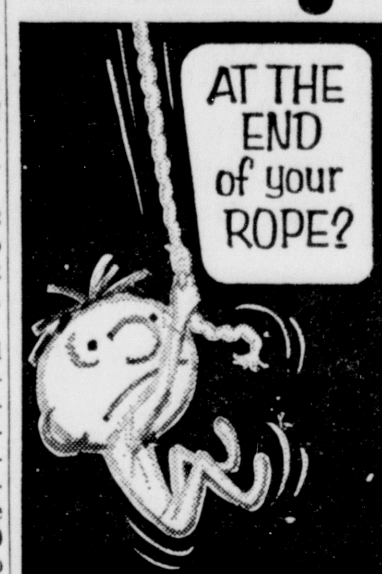

A wider margin was expected than last year's vote in favor of retaining Nationalist China in the seat it has held since 1945 as a founding member of the United Nations and a permanent Security Council member with veto power.

Last year's vote was 56-42 against a Communist motion to oust the Nationalists and seat the Peking Communist regime, with 12 abstentions.

The assembly, finally finished with its opening three-week roster parade of foreign ministers in the annual policy debate, was scheduled this morning to discuss relief to Yugoslavia for the disastrous Skopje earthquake which took 1,200 lives there last July. Relief to victims of last week's hurricane in Haiti and Cuba also may be raised.

Assembly President Carlos Sosa Rodriguez of Venezuela last week designated Wednesday, as well as today, for the China representation debate.

Birmingham Heads For Bias Showdown

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Integration leaders Martin Luther King Jr. and Fred Shuttlesworth return here today for a showdown with city officials on their demands for more desegregation.

The two Negro leaders who led the massive racial demonstrations here that exploded into violence and led to more than 2,500 arrests, issued an ultimatum last week that 25 Negro policemen must be hired by next Tuesday.

They vowed to lead the Negro community in more and bigger demonstrations if their demands are not met.

Both King and Shuttlesworth have emphasized, however, that employment of the Negro policeman is only the first step. They also demanded "face-to-face" negotiations between Negro leaders and the city council to arrange better job opportunities for Negroes in other areas of government.

Gov. George Wallace was to appear on local television late today and was expected to discuss the racial situation and hold a news conference.

The Community Affairs Committee on Human Relations, composed of 14 whites and nine Negroes, adopted a resolution Friday urging Mayor Albert Boutwell to change the city's policy of hiring only white policemen. Many of the city's most influential business and civic leaders previously had made the same recommendation.

Earlier the mayor said he would not answer the King and Shuttlesworth demand but Saturday a spokesman announced Boutwell was considering the committee recommendation.

Clinton, La.: At least 43 pickets were arrested during the weekend while protesting segregation customs in stores. Most of the arrests came Saturday, but four members of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) were arrested Sunday.

Chicago: Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy told an audience in Chicago Sunday that the administration's civil rights legislation "has become an article of faith, testing whether white Americans can put aside sectional and political differences to meet racial problems. . . .

He said the "whole nation will be the loser" if Congress rejects the measure.

Greensboro, N.C.: About 200 Negroes paraded before a segregated theater Sunday night. The demonstration was orderly and there were no arrests.

Charlotte, N.C.: Author-historian Harry Golden urged Negroes attending a convention of the North Carolina NAACP Sunday to use their ballots to oust Southern office holders who block their quest for better treatment.

Jackson, Miss.: Negroes attempted to attend two all-white Methodist and Episcopal churches here Sunday but were refused entry and left quietly.

Good Reason For Excuse

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The receptionist in the Superior Court Jury Commissioner's Office warned the man who came to return his jury summons that "we don't excuse people because of their jobs."

But when she learned the reluctant prospective juror was Judge Elmer D. Doyle, who presides in a courtroom just around the hall from her office, she wrote on the summons: "Permanently excused from jury duty."

Soccer Fan

Hard To Hole

MADRID (UPI) — When an angry spectator jumped onto the soccer field here Sunday and rushed at the referee, police grabbed him and hauled him off to the small jail under the stands. Then they went back to watch the game.

While the police were gone, the fan battered down the jail door and escaped into the crowd.
